New opportunities

• It is very important to create the new opportunities of education and sustainable development via Struve Geodetic Arc, which based on civil societies’ needs, common identity, shared history and culture.
The first activity

• The first activity is defining and specifying the detail activities of the process, determining workshops' team, dividing the assignments, analyzing the existing situation. The main project activities will be arrangement of seminars, workshops, conferences and study visits, which reproduce a common action plan. We’ll use foreign participants’ (NGO’s) knowledge, experiences and advises in this process as much as possible. The participants bring to each other experiences and knowledge in developing the cooperation network, historic education and democracy in Struve Geodetic Arc.
